I suffered with catarrh for many years and got so deaf that I went about my Museums, Circus and Theatre giving directions and doing business with a big ear-trumpet at the side of my head. It was very annoying to me and amusing to those who saw me. By the advice of physicians I sought the climate of the Sunny South. In six months I could see no change and was discouraged. At this time I began using Chalmer's English Catarrh Cure. In three months I felt a new man, in six months my hearing returned. I refused to give a testimonial at once for the English Catarrh Cure, as I feared it was not permanent. But a year and more has now passed, and I can now heartily indorse Chalmer's English Catarrh Cure for the cure of catarrh and deafness.

DRAKE, THE BUCCANEER.

Professor Davidson Says the Bold Navigator Did Not Discover San Francisco Bay.

At the meeting of the California Historical Society last Tuesday night at the Palace Hotel, Professor George Davidson of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, read a paper on the "Identification of the Anchorage of Sir Francis Drake on the Coast of California." The Professor explained that his paper was prepared to controvert Edward Everett Hale's argument which avowed the theory that Sir Francis Drake was the discoverer of San Francisco Bay. Illustrative of his discourse, Professor Davidson exhibited a collection of twenty-two copies and photographs of charts made by early Spanish, English and Portuguese navigators. The speaker proceeded to show that the bay in which the ancient navigator had sought shelter was not San Francisco Bay, but was Drake's Bay. He quoted descriptive passages by narrators of the voyage, showing that the description was not that of San Francisco Bay, because from it they could not have seen the chalky cliffs which reminded them of home and which caused Drake to name the country New Albiion. It is evident that the headlands at the entrance of San Francisco Bay do not answer to this description. From his, together with other details in Drake's account that do not correspond with the peculiarities of San Francisco Bay, the Professor concluded that Drake sailed by it, never dreaming of its existence, but leaving it for a Spaniard, one Constanza, to blunder into years after.

Further Nominations.

The President yesterday sent the following nominations to the Senate: J. B. Clarkston, of Iowa, First Assistant Postmaster General; Lewis Wolfley, of Tucson, Governor of Arizona. Postmasters: William Wallace, at Indianapolis; James M. Kellogg, Wickes, Montana; and Jeremiah Sullivan, of Montana, Collector of Customs for the District of Montana and Idaho.

John A. Kasson, of Iowa, William W. Phelps, of New Jersey, and George H. Bates, of Delaware, were appointed Commissioners to represent the United States at the conference to be held at Berlin concerning the affairs in the Samoan Islands, and Elbert D. Weed, of Montana, was appointed United States Attorney of Montana.

A Chicago paper shows much geographical ignorance when it says that by the annexation of Texas the area of the United States was nearly doubled in size. Texas has 265,000 square miles. When Texas, the western part of which is arid, is compared with the domain of the United States, which then covered all it now does with the exception of California, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada and part of Colorado, it will be seen that proportionately the Lone Star State was not so big. Before Texas was annexed the United States contained more than 2,000,000 square miles, or four times the area of Texas.

Mr. Windom is the oldest member of the new Cabinet, being nearly 63 years of age. Mr. Miller is the youngest, not having reached his 48th year. Mr. Blaine and Mr. Rusk are about the same age—59. Mr. Proctor is 58 and Mr. Tracy 60. Next to Mr. Miller the youngest man in the Cabinet is Mr. Wanamaker, who is not quite 52.

Professor William H. Brewer, of Yale, has been offered the position of First Assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Rusk. He now holds the Norton Professorship of Agriculture in the Sheffield Scientific School. Professor Brewer says poor health will prevent his accepting the Agricultural Department position.

At the election at Sacramento Tuesday the Republicans elected H. McKee, Auditor; George A. Putnam, Collector, and J. J. Buckley, Assessor. The Democrats get Wm. McLaughlin for Second Trustee and W. A. D. Comstock for Fire Commissioner.

Eugene Schuyler, the nominee for Assistant Secretary of State, at present in Italy, is not expected to arrive in Washington for at least a month. Meanwhile Walker Blaine is occupying the Assistant Secretary's desk.

It is reported that the Union Pacific surveyors in Northern California and Nevada have made a preliminary survey covering nearly 350 miles in the past three months.

NO LICENSE.

Modoc County Shuts Down on the Saloons.

The New Era thus describes the result of the liquor license fight lately held in our neighboring county across the line:

Modoc county—"that wild harum scarum cowboy section," as an exchange dubs it—has voted to suppress the liquor traffic, in so far as allowing it to be sold by the drink in saloons. The majority for "no license" is so large that no doubt is entertained that the people meant what they said at the polls, "we want no more saloons."

The effect on the business of the county by closing the saloons is yet to be learned. Dire calamity is predicted in some localities. For instance, at Bidwell. A gentleman from there said that "if the saloons were closed, the town would be ruined; that there would be no amusement to bring men there."

The vote in Alturas, although small, has demonstrated the fact that the town is not the "worst place in the county." Out of a vote of 146, "no license" carried by a majority of 31.

We learn that the saloon men are subscribing to a fund which will be used to fight the matter in the Courts; that the League of Freedom, a State organization of whisky men, will lend all the aid in their power to the local organization. The State organization is composed of 10,000 of the wealthiest liquor dealers. They have an unlimited amount of capital at their command, with which to fight the citizens of Modoc for years. We have little doubt, if the programme prepared is carried out, that Modoc taxpayers will have an enormous bill to pay for legal hire; at the same time the county will lose the money now paid into the county treasury in the way of license, while at the same time, whisky will be sold as usual and more will be drunk than ever.

While we bow to the will of the majority and say, "they will be done," we are compelled to acknowledge that we think the remedy will be more severe than the affliction.

For thirty-nine years the State of Rhode Island has had a stringent "No License" law upon its statute books, and now the citizens have an enormous petition before the Legislature asking that the statute be repealed, because, after so long a time they have come to the conclusion that as much whisky is drunk in that State now as was consumed before the law was enacted. It may be different here, however, as a man cannot step out of his back door into another State and get all the liquor he wants. Well, Modoc is a prohibition county beyond the shadow of a doubt, and all that now remains is for the Supervisors to pass a prohibitory ordinance, which they will do before the first of July. The voters have spoken in thunder tones "down with whisky!" and, as a majority rules in America, we echo "down with whisky!" except, always, for mechanical and medicinal purposes. Two-thirds of the population will turn their attention to the mechanical arts.

THE INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Pittsburg Dispatch: President Harrison makes a beginning which augurs well.

Buffalo Express: The inaugural address of President Benjamin Harrison is compact and full of meat.

Kansas City Journal: The message will stimulate confidence and encourage every legitimate interest in the Nation.

Wheeling Intelligencer: This and Garfield's performance are the best inaugural addresses the country has had since Lincoln's.

Cincinnati Enquirer (Dem.): Every one seems to be pleased with the inaugural address. It was solemn, serene and gracious.

Davenport Gazette: It is a document of a dignified character, and its advocacy of American rights augurs well for the Administration.

Omaha Bee: The address is elevated in tone and spirit, is free from partisan allusion, is thoroughly American in sentiment, and will strengthen the new President in the respect and confidence of the people.

Rochester Democrat: The address touches every theme which would naturally be included in it, and is a sensible and patriotic effort, clothed in choice diction. It is worthy of the occasion which inspired it.

Pittsburg Commercial Gazette: It is not only calm and dignified—free from bluster on the one hand and profuse promises on the other—but the expression of a firm and deliberate purpose to rule wisely and well by a faithful and fearless discharge of every duty.

Albany Journal: It is the most interesting and suggestive inaugural delivered to the American people since the close of the war. It is a revelation of President Harrison's purposes, and it no doubt outlines the policy of his party. It is a policy of wisdom and safety, prosperity and peace.

Cleveland Leader: President Harrison's inaugural is a declaration of sound American principles, reverent, hopeful, kindly, magnanimous, and firm. The reading of it makes one think life worth living. It is in marked contrast to President Cleveland's pessimistic proclamations.

Burlington Hawkeye: It is an outspoken, unreserved, manly declaration of principles without equivocation or reservation. It lays down rules of future action which awaken confidence and whose faithful observance will make the coming Administration one of many blessings for the people of the country.

Louisville Courier-Journal (Dem.): There is nothing in it to indicate just what the Administration may do on any open or disputed, public question other than those questions on which party line are distinctly drawn. On the whole, we shall, as the newspapers sometimes say of the infinite "have to wait for developments."

"Persistent importuning," gentlemen, is a sort of pernicious activity. Once more, Indians, and Ohio folks, we say unto you, come home.

A Young German's Good Luck.

NAPA, March 11.—J. L. Fischer, a young German who has been employed by one of the prominent orchardists of this valley for some months past, has just fallen heir to a German estate of about $400,000. He has bought the property of his employer, an orchard of seventy acres, one of the finest in Napa valley, and will at once improve the same, build a fine residence and make this his permanent home. His first draft of $50,000 has arrived, and the rest can be had as the estate is settled.

Uncle Sam (heavily)—Er—I think, Mesa Canada, it is going to rain. Allow me to offer you my arm.

The San Francisco Chronicle remarks: General Harrison has not made half so many professions about his unalterable devotion to the cause of civil service reform as Mr. Cleveland did, but he has announced his intention of filling Territorial offices from the Territories themselves, instead of importing carpet-baggers. This is reform of a genuine sort.

Attorney General Garland is going back to Arkansas to practice law. He might be given the job of finding Clayton's assassin.

A party of twenty-eight "instrumentalists" from the Salvation Army in England has begun a tour of the State of Maine to revive interest in the army. Each man is a capable player on a brass band instrument. The "instrumentalists" will pass through Massachusetts soon. Whenever they come to Reno Lemery & Howard will prepare a banquet for them at the Palace restaurant.
Great Britain is moving forward steadily in temperance reform. In 1876 the drink bill of the country was 4£ 9s. per head of the population. Last year it was 3£ 6s. 8d per head. At the latter rate, however, the sum expended for intoxicating drinks was enormous, being £123,606,939. This is a larger sum than was expended at George Becker's Granite saloon, but George will bet that amount that they have no better liquors or beer in Great Britain than he keeps in Reno.
The Northern Boom.
The crowd is now toward Washington Territory. The Grinnell (Iowa) Herald says that there were thirty-eight passengers on one train through there for Washington Territory, and the Brooklyn (Indiana) American says: There will be a large emigration of Indians to Washington Territory during the coming Spring, one railroad company having already contracted to remove over 150 families. Most of the immigrants are good solid Republicans.

THE U. P. COMING.

They are Probably Heading For the Comstock.

Taking a cue from a recent item in the JOURNAL the Enterprise publishes the annexed:

The party of Union Pacific surveyors who have been at work in the vicinity of Austin are now in the neighborhood of Sand Springs, and moving in this direction. Sand Springs is just east of the Sink of the Carson. Between the Sink and Sand Springs there is only a single narrow mountain ridge. It will not be necessary to cross this ridge as it runs out a little south of Carson lake, or "sink." Around the southern part of the ridge the whole country is nearly a dead level till the Carson river is reached. The rise is very gradual all the way up the river to Dayton. From Dayton the road may easily be brought up over the flat to near Silver City. There it would turn north up a long ravine of gradual ascent to near the new Yellow Jacket works, when it would be about on a level with the V. & T. in this city.

From this city it would be carried very easy into Long Valley, passing the low divide near the Geiger grade toll house. Long Valley would carry it to the Truckee river near Reno.

Fremont found this Long Valley pass in the early days, and traveling southward through it and other valleys with which it connects (to the eastward of Combs), journeyed onward through the region where are now situated the towns of Aurora and Bodie.

At Sand Springs the road passes through the immense salt deposits, from which salt for use in our mills was brought in the early days by teams, and later by camel train. The Comstock supply of salt came from Sand Springs until railroad connections made it cheaper to obtain the article from White Plains, on the line of the C. P., between Reno and the Sink of the Humboldt.

The supply of salt at Sand Springs is inexhaustible. There is a vast deal of granulated salt on the surface, and a few inches below rock salt is found which extends to an unknown depth. Borax and many other valuable minerals, as alum, soda and sulphur, are found in the same neighborhood.

Harney County, Oregon.

The Legislature of Oregon has created the county of Harney out of the southern part of Grant county. The county seat has been temporarily located at Harney village, and the officers appointed are: T. J. Shields, County Judge; W. E. Grace, County Clerk; P. F. Stenger, Sheriff; T. J. Morrison and D. H. Smythe, County Commissioners; W. H. Gradon, Surveyor, and L. A. Baker, School Superintendent. Harney county is the northern neighbor of Humboldt, west of McDermit, and east of that place Malheur county joins Humboldt on the north.

The California Mills.

Superintendent Lyman tells the mining reporter of the San Francisco Report that everything will be in readiness to start the California battery and pan mills by steam in two weeks from yesterday, but if there is sufficient water in the Carson river to operate the Eureka mill at that time it will not be necessary to start it, but it will always be ready for an emergency. This will insure future dividends for holders of Consolidated California & Virginia shares.

The New Judge.

Governor Stevenson will to-day appoint his present Private Secretary, Judge Thos. H. Wells, District Judge of the Fourth Judicial District, under the bill passed by the Legislature. This appointment will necessitate a new man for Private Secretary and University Regent.

The Oldest Postmaster Can be Hired to Resign.

A petition is in circulation by the citizens of Yorktown, N. Y., asking for the retirement from active service, with a liberal pension, of Lewis Purdy, who is claimed as the oldest Postmaster in the United States. Mr. Purdy was appointed in 1841 by President William Henry Harrison, and has been in active service ever since, being now ninety-three years old. His only assistant is his wife, who is ninety, and the old couple receive and distribute the mail twice a day.

THE LOVELY SNOW.

A Timely Fall Believes Anxiety and Promises to Roll Money Into Our Coffers—The Naked Mountain Sides Permit the Piling Up of Drifts that Will Save the Water Until Needed by the Mills and Ranches.

The Enterprise says:

The new State was born when the appropriation for big storage dams was made, and now it has been dressed in fine white raiment. Not much snow fell on the Comstock, but the wires were down last night between here and San Francisco until a late hour, which shows that a generous fall has covered the Sierras with the mantle of moisture that has been hoped and prayed for. The knowledge that the work of this year on a storage dam would considerably increase the duration of mill work, had given increased confidence in mining securities, and as good things run in couples or crowds, the snow arrived just when everybody was beginning to feel hopeful, anyhow. The consequence will be that there will be no sky-colored predictions. The supply of water is laid up for us and we are to be prepared to make use of a much greater proportion than formerly. Before this fall the mountains were covered with a sheet of considerable thickness, and as a strong wind prevailed during much of the fall the drifts in the mountains will be of a lasting depth.

About ten years ago, when the sides of the mountains that slope toward the Carson had become pretty thoroughly denuded, attention was attracted to the fact that the flow of the river was about as even in volume as it had been while the trees were still covering the slopes and protecting the ground from the sun. Expressions of surprise were frequently heard, as it was supposed that quickly melting under the warm rays the snow would disappear in a flood, leaving an afterwards dry river bed. The explanation, however, was simple. Unprotected from the strong winds by the thick growth of trees that had once assisted in securing a comparatively uniform depth, the light dry snow was blown into huge drifts in the deep canyons, leaving many of the sharp and rounded tops bare and giving the range a deceptive appearance of almost entire absence of snow. The drifts in immense masses in the deep gorges did not show themselves to the people in the valleys, but silently settling into a compact body, shaded by the overhanging mountain sides, melted slowly and kept the river supplied as long as when the shade of the trees performed the duty of protection from too sudden melting. It is even probable that from the same quantity of snow a larger and greater flow of water may be expected, as if evenly distributed and making its way to the streams over a wide area the evaporation would necessarily be much larger than where the main body of water finds its way down a narrow canyon. Though by no means certain that this is the last fall of the season, there is enough assurance now that our usual supply of working water will be on hand, and the fine weather we have enjoyed is an ample compensation for the loss of sleighing. Next year when dams are completed on the large scale contemplated we can smile with content if there is a fall of but six inches, as all lying above the dams will be saved for use instead of going down to hunt the Colorado through the Carson sink.

Beckwith Pass.

The Plumas National rises to remark: H. V. Gates, a prominent railroad engineer, arrived here from Redding on Thursday evening. We understand he proposes to make a thorough survey of the Beckwith Pass and Middle Feather route. When this is done it will be demonstrated beyond a doubt that it has no equal as to feasibility. The altitude is less, the grade lighter and no snow, three very important items in operating a road economically. We don't know what company Mr. Gates represents, but presume he belongs to the same company as those operating in the neighborhood of Indian valley. He has already arranged for transportation of supplies down the river. He will put on at least three engineering parties within the next ten days, and will probably make Quincy his headquarters.

Coal, Coal, Coal.

Pleasant Valley coal is the best and cheapest fuel in the market. 2 tons of P. V. coal equals five tons Rocky Mountain coal, by actual test. No slate or clinkers. One ton P. V. coal equals 3 cords common pine wood. Give it a trial and be convinced. Leave orders with or enquire of H. Sample, Depot Hotel or coal house, or at Natchez, or of Phil Alliger, the drayman.

WHAT ON EARTH

Is the reason people will not, can not or do not, see any difference in cheap nostrums put up by cheap John Hays or irresponsible parties at enormous profits rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at a great price? No medicine in the world is giving such universal satisfaction for purifying the blood as BLOOD PURIFIER AND SKIN MAKER, and every bottle that does not do its work will cost you nothing.

THE OLD RELIABLE FURNITURE HOUSE OF

John Breuner is well worthy of note, and we take pleasure in devoting to it due space and attention. Mr. Breuner has been engaged in this business for thirty-three years and conducts one of the largest business houses in California. He manufactures and deals in all kinds of furniture and bedding, and has established a most enviable celebrity for the excellence of the goods turned out by his house. He carries a very large stock, embracing all grades and kinds of furniture and quotes prices that defy competition. His goods are all first-class, made of the best material and first-class workmanship, and the people cannot find a more advantageous house to deal with. He carries a supply of photographs of all goods, which will be sent free of charges to any address, and by this method people at a distance can select goods at home as well as in person at his house, and may rest assured of being satisfactorily and fairly treated by him. This is a most convenient and pleasant method for those abroad, and we recommend a trial of it.
